

THE GAZETTE.

SATURDAY MORNING, JULY 3, 1858.

HOW A STORY GROWS.

The Philadelphia Evening Bulletin gives the following picture of an excitement which was got up in that city the other day.

"Somebody, yesterday, happened to refer to the calamity of two years ago on the North Pennsylvania Railroad, by which so many persons of an excursion party lost their lives. Somebody else remarked that an excursion party had gone, yesterday, down the Baltimore Railroad. Somebody else observed that it was just such a hot day as the fatal one of June, 1856; and somebody else said what a dreadful thing it would be if a collision should occur, and how particularly dreadful if the collision should occur on Gray's Ferry Bridge.

A passer-by heard something about a collision on Gray's Ferry Bridge, and repeated the story. It was passed from one to another, and spread over town like a conflagration, augmenting in terror as it spread, till at last we were informed, about half-past two o'clock, that two trains of cars had met on Gray's Ferry Bridge; that the bridge broke down, that five cars, crowded with passengers, had gone into the Schuylkill, and that a fearful number of lives were lost—some said forty-five, others sixty, while others made it one hundred and ten. Other informants said the dead were piled along the road for some distance, while the number of wounded was enormous.

The effects of this frightful story were astonishing. Third street, and the newspaper offices, were in instant commotion. Reporters for afternoon papers, who had no time to go to the scene of disaster, rushed hither and thither, consulting and inquiring of everybody, while a number belonging to morning papers departed instantaneously to Gray's Ferry, to get the full particulars, and the names of the killed and wounded, and the harrowing details of this unprecedented calamity.

PARIS AND LONDON.

Thirteen men were tried recently in Paris by the criminal court of the Seine, as members of a secret society and parties to a plot of insurrection, which was to be carried into effect simultaneously with the revolutionary attempt at Chalons. All but three were convicted and sentenced to long terms of imprisonment and fines of hundreds of francs. The ten culprits are small clerks and tradesmen, about as well qualified as the Chalons patriots to construct and administer a free government for the forty millions of French. For the first time no tailor nor shoemaker appears in the list; usually the needle and the awl are prominently represented. In the London police report of last week we read that the case of a man brought before the Lord Mayor for a drunkenness; his general character was good. Here is an extract:

"The prisoner. I have taken a liberty during the holidays, my Lord.

"The Lord Mayor. Are you a tailor?

"The prisoner. No, my Lord, a shoemaker.

"The Lord Mayor. I thought you must be one or the other. I have more trouble with tailors and shoemakers than with all the other trades put together."

In the United States in our time these two trades are among the soberest and most orderly, and no doubt will remain so.

A DIFFERENCE.

Jim had read the well known story of George Washington's love of truth, and the father's love of the noble principle of the son, so well manifested on the occasion referred to, of George's cutting down the cherry tree, acknowledging his transgression, and receiving a full and free pardon, besides praises and kind caresses from his father.

So Jim, actuated by the noble example, supplied himself with a hatchet, and going to his father's orchard, cut down some of the fruit trees. He then coolly, and as soon as he made his approach, marched up to him with a very important air and acknowledged the deed, expressing the next thing in the programme to be tears, benedictions and embraces. But, and to relate, instead of this, the old gentleman caught up a hickory and gave him an "all-fired laming." Jim was no Washington.

LADY'S OPINION OF A LADY'S MAN.

Mrs. Stephens, in the last number of her magazine, gives this character of men the following words:

"Our own private opinion of the Lady's Man, that he is thoroughly contemptible—a sort of specimen of life hardly worth speaking about—a nut-shell with the kernel withered up—a handful of foam drifting over the wine of life, something not altogether unpleasant to the fancy, but of no earthly use. A woman of sense would as soon think of putting to sea in a man-of-war as of anchoring in a card-house, or take up of teaching herself to a lady-killer. Women, with the name are seldom deceived into thinking our lady's man the choicest specimen of his sex."

HOWARD ASSOCIATION, PHILADELPHIA.

A benevolent institution, established by special endorsement of the United States Congress, and the State of Pennsylvania, for the relief of the sick and distressed. To all persons afflicted with Epidemic Diseases, such as SPERMATOCYTES, SEMINAL WEAKNESS, IMPOTENCE, &c.

The Howard Association, in view of the awful destruction of human life, caused by Sexual diseases, and the deceptions practised upon the unfortunate victims of such diseases by quackery, several years ago directed their efforts to the relief of the afflicted, and have since that time, as a charitable act, for the treatment of this open a Dispensary for the treatment of the afflicted, in all their forms, and to give class of diseases, to all who apply by letter with a description of their condition, (age occupation, habits of life, &c.) and in cases of extreme poverty, to furnish Medicines free of charge. It is needless to add that the Association commands the highest Medical skill of the age, and will furnish the most approved mode of treatment.

The Directors, on a review of the past, feel assured that their labors in this sphere of benevolent effort, have been of great benefit to the afflicted, especially to the young, and they have resolved to devote themselves, with renewed zeal, to this very important but much despised cause.

Just published by the Association, a Report on Spermatocytosis, and a Report on Seminal Weakness, which will be sent by mail, (in a sealed letter envelope) free of charge, on receipt of two stamps for postage.

Address for Report or treatment, Dr. GEO. R. CALHOUN, Consulting Surgeon, Howard Association, No. 2 South Ninth Street, Philadelphia, Pa. By order of the Directors.
